CLARK COUNTY
WASHINGTON

Clark County HOME Program

On November 28, 1990, the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing (NAHA) Act was enacted into law (P.L.101-625). The centerpiece of the legislation was the HOME Investment Partnerships (HOME) program, which represents a new approach to housing assistance at the federal level.

HOME affords local governments the flexibility to fund a wide range of low-income housing activities through creative and unique housing partnerships among Counties, private industry, and nonprofit organizations. HOME allows these partnerships to respond to diverse local housing needs through rehabilitation, new construction, tenant-based rental assistance, and other related activities.

HOME is targeted to those most in need. All HOME funds must benefit persons below 80% of area median income. In the case of rental projects and tenant-based rental assistance, at least 90% of the families receiving HOME assistance are households with incomes below 60% of the median. HOME funds used for homeownership projects must assist low-income homebuyers, and the units are subject to resale restrictions or a subsidy recapture provision. In addition, current eligible homeowners can participate in the program through an owner rehabilitation program.
